PARKER.-In this city, March 23, the Rev BESJAMIN W PARKER, in the 75th year of his age, a native of Reading, Mass. The deceased, with his wife, who survives him, came to these islands in 1833, as a missionary of the A B C F M, in company with the Rev Lowell Smith and wife. Shortly after arriving here he sailed for the Marquesas Islands, together with the Revs Messes Armstrong and Alexander. Returning here from the then unsuccessful attempt to establish a mission on those islands, Mr Parker was stationed at Kaneohe, on this islands, where he labored as a missionary of the Roard where he labored as a missionary of the Roard where he labored as a missionary of the Roard where he labored as a missionary of the Roard where he labored as a missionary of the Roard with the Roard with the Roard where he labored as a missionary of the Roard with island, where he labored as a missionary of the Board until the change was brought about which placed the Hawaiian churches change was brought about which placed the Hawaiian churches under the charge of native pastors, since which time he has resided in this city attending to his duties as Principal of the Native Hawaiian Theological School. Last year he re-visited his native land, after an absence of a third of a century and came back with invigorated health, which he continued to enjoy until recently. He was one that might emphatically be spoken of as a good man; and he rests from his life-labor. The funeral services will take place at 4 p m to-day, at Kawaiiana Church.

MR. EDITOR : Nineteen years ago I witnessed for three days in succession upon the " Common " in Boston a trial of Steam Fire Engines, assembled one each from all the manufactories of the article at that time in existence in the States.

My recollection is of one or more each, from the cities of Baltimore, Philadelphia, Albany, Providence, Lawrence, Manchester, N. H. and others. The trial was severe and protracted : testing the machines in their every capacity; throwing large streams and small streams, streams borizontal and perpendicular : streams through fifty feet of hose, then adding fifty feet lengths until they were playing through 1000 feet or more, horizontally, then vertically, playing one stream, then two or more from each machine, and with nozzles of varied diameter.

The horses with harness on were stabled temporarily on the "Common,"-engines each a given distance from their respective horses, then trials of of the time required from a given signal, to attach horses to the engines,-dash off as if for life, or upon a race course,-get up fire and steam upon the fleetest run, to a certain amount requisite for efficient service in the shortest space of time. Trials on time, trials with each other, trials of various kinds of fuel, trials with water of their own suction, and water furnished by hydrants, trials of throwing the water from one machine to another excent the last, and various others : all of which were witnessed by delegations from the city authorities of Boston, Salem, Lawrence, Lowell, Nashua, New Bedford, Taunton and Providence and other cities and towns. At that time if I mistake not, all but three or four of the cities of the Western States were dependant upon the old hand engines; and as Boston had acquired a world-inde reputation for making those machines, it was hard to convince her people anything better than their own make could possibly abortive attempt of the European Diplomatists. exist: but that three days trial, witnessed by tens In truth, those most concerned are best qualified of thousands, was a death blow to Boston notions of to settle their own affairs : and this is precisely the former stripe, and must have convinced every what has since occurred in European Turkey. intelligent unbiased mind, of the vast superiority | The Feudal tributary Prince of Servia has wisely and economy of steam over muscle in fighting fire resolved to come to tarms with his lawful Suzeas in propelling machinery for any other purpose. From that day to this, the old man-killing " breaks" with their volunteer force, "firemen's riots " and boy incendiarism have given way to steamers, picked and paid men, throughout the country, just as fast as city and village "fathers" could bring their minds to see that a small sacrifice of present machines, was the way to economy, efficiency and safety. Though I had "run wid der machines" in Boston at an earlier day, and felt a strong aloha for the institution, I became a thorough convert by the great prepondence of evidence, to the innovation already adopted, if my memory is correct, by New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and San Francisco.

On my return I witnessed while in San Francisco, on several occasions the superior merits of the new, over the old system, and have ever since advocated and urged as occasion offered, a stop to further expenditure to support our present system, and the Beaconsfield said last September, was a sort of adoption of a Steam Fire Engine, and a paid Depart-And I would now ask the Minister over that Dene of the most authoritative diplomatic journals of the Continent of Europe-the Memorial Diplomatique of Paris-steadfastly maintained the SATURDAY, MARCH 24. opinion that Russia was instigated by ambition, A TREATY concerning the formation of a general and in no wise influenced by a desire to see a Postal Union was concluded at Berne on October Panelavist Power established to the South of the 9th, 1874, -as is generally known. It may be re-Danube. The same journal constantly deplored called, en passant, that the powers, by whose sevthe blindness of certain statesmen of great eral plenipotentiaries the treaty in question was Britain who believed that Russia was actuated signed, were Great Britain, the United States of by different motives in the present case from North America, Germany, Austro-Hungary, those which gave rise to the Crimean war. "The Russia, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, Portugal, same spirit," exclaimed that journal, "now Norway, Sweden, the Netherlands, Italy, Greece, animates Russia, as in 1853-4-5,-a selfish spirit Switzerland, Luxembourg, Roumania, Servia, of aggrandisement at the cost of the Turk, under Turkey, Egypt, and finally France, somewhat the cloak of religious sympathies with the Chrislater. It is needless to say that the advantages tians of Turkey." Now that peace has been which resulted from the very beginning to the arranged between the Porte and Servia, it i people of the several States above-mentioned difficult to understand upon what point Russia from the operation of this Postal Treaty, were can ground a casus belli with Turkey. Our of so important a character as left no room to latest accounts from Russia announce that the doubt of its desirability and usefulness. The war spirit is abating somewhat, and that the people of the United States have been especially Czar seems less inclined now to go to war with satisfied by the increased facilities furnished to Turkey, than before the Servian peace. Neverthem by this treaty for carrying on postal theless, preparations are still actively being made communication with other countries, at moderon the Russian side of the Pruth for an armed ate rates of postage, and with full security for invasion of Roumania, and an expedition of 200, the safe delivery of their foreign correspondence. 000 men is to be sent on through that state to For some time past, many people in this the Danube, and ultimately perhaps to Constan-Hawaiian Kingdom have also been of opinion tinople, according to Russian plans, in the event that it would be very useful and advantageous for of war between the Czar and the Padishah. The ourselves to join the Postal Union in question; Padishah of course has no wish to go to war with and there can be no manner of doubt about the Russia; so that the question of war or peace matter, if other circumstances permitted the entirely rests upon the will of one man-the adoption of such a course. A special Article of Russian Autocrat. A policy of non-intervention the treaty (Art. XVII) provides for "the entry seems to be the course decided upon by England into the Postal Union of countries beyond sea, and the other European powers. To fight a man, you must get at him-and But here, as in the case of a great many other this seems to be the real difficulty in the case. very useful improvements, arises the inevitable question of cost. The proportion of the expense to be borne by each individual state included in the Postal Union is expressly laid down in section XXVII of the "Detailed Regulations for the execution of the treaty" for that end. The countries included are divided into six classes, and each contributes in the proportion of a certain number of units towards the general expenses. In view of their division, countries of the first class contribute at the rate of 25 units, while those of the sixth class contribute at the

that Hawaii-nei might be aggregated to the United States, as regards the Postal Union, in the same way that the Faroe Islands, the Bale-aric Isles, Malta, or Madeira, are aggregated to the countries that claim dominion over them, and so included with them in the Postal Union.

We suppose it to be almost needless to observe that the independence of the Hawaiian Kingdom would in no wise be affected by such an arrangement, if it be possible. At all events, there could be no harm for our government to duly authorise the Hawaiian Diplomatic Resident at Washing-

THE LATEST intelligence from Eastern Europe is of a reassuring character. The announcement that a peace has been arranged between the Prince of Servia and the Padishah, his Suzerain, affords grounds to hope that the Turkish difficulty will be ultimately settled by amicable negotiations. It is true, the Conference at Constantinople broke up without having effected any definite purpose. But, subsequent events have mitigated the gravity of such an rain, regardless of the Russian party, who have been so violent in hounding him on to fight against the Supreme Head of the Turkish Empire, of which his own territory is,-as he well knows

-a tributary, vassal State. Prince Milan got a lesson that doubtless made a deep and lasting impression upon him-when Tchernayeff proclaimed him King, and the Czar was so indignant, and peremptorily ordered Milan to decline the honour, under pain of losing his Russian Majesty's countenance and favour. The eyes of the Panslavist party were opened upon that occasion; the Omladina serpska-that "secret society" of the Panslavist which-as Lord power in itself, wherewith modern Statesmen had to deal in the Eastern question,"-began protests about Bulgarian atrocities and the treatment of the Christians in Turkey at all events members of the Christian family of nations.

By sea, Russia can do nothing against Turkey, at least until the Baltic and Finland ice melts in May next. No Russian expedition can reach Turkey-in-Europe by the Black Sea, for the reason that Hobart Pashah's fleet would be able to prevent them. Their Mediterranean by steaming off to the United States. Again, to attack Constantinople by land, a Russian Expeditionary force must either march through Austrian or Roumanian territory; the former route is out of the question as involving war with Austria, and as for the latter, it can not be forgotten that, in 1853 a Russian Army of first class, and little Luxembourg figures alone 70,000 men, was driven back from the Danube/ by Omar Pashab, and ultimately forced to retreat again beyond the Pruth, at a time, too, that the Turks were alone, and not yet allied with any of the European powers. Moreover, but, still the cost would come very heavy on our allowing that a Russian army of 100,000 or Exchequer; in fact so heavy as to exclude the possibility of this government making so great of the Danube, they would be starved out a pecuniary sacrifice even to secure for the peolike the troops of Cambyses, before they could ple the unquestionable advantages which the even reach the Balkans, that is, if they depended on the resources of the country; and if obliged to victual their soldiers with supplies brought up from the rear, the cost would be incalculable and the mode uncertain. It cost England the foregoing classification. Section XXIX of £6,000,000 to send up 10,000 men to Magdala, the "Detailed Regulations," fixes the "District only 350 miles' march. The only side on which of the Union," from which it appears that certhe Turks are really assailable is in Asia Minor. tain, so to speak, outlying Territories, mostly as the events of Kars proved during the Crimean war. An expedition, setting out from Titlis could march by the shores of the Euxine, following the route of Xenephon, to the Bosphorus, with many a hard-fought battle on the way, perhaps, but still with the best chance of seeing at last the Heptalophis, the "Seven-hilled" Stambool beyond the blue waters of Marmora. The Turks however are on the watch in that Duchy of Finland, with Russia. Now, taking quarter, and 40,000 Moossoolmanns have rallied into account the proximity of the Hawaiian Isles around Kars, in anticipation of its being atto the United States of North America, the tacked by the Russians. Yakoob Bey, the warlike Moossoolmaun Khan of Kashgar is reported still more closely drawn together by the late to have beaten an army of 20,000 Russians at Tashkend in Russian Toorkistaun, and thence marched on towards the Khirgiz Wolga Tartars' country. This needs confirmation. The Poles are also preparing, they say, to rise up against

Empire, but were simply the result of Russia's ambitious schemes, and selfish designs against

In conclusion, while we think that the probabilities of a Russo-Turkish war are now somewhat diminished, and that a peaceful settlement appears more likely now than before the Servian peace, we await with the liveliest curiosity the next reports from Eastern Europe, as likely to convey conclusive intelligence, one way or other —concerning this questio vexata of the Russo-Turkish pilikia!

THE FIRE OF SUNDAY LAST .- Honolulu is certainly fortunate in seldem having a fire of importance. That of Sunday last, though the aggregate loss will amount to only a few thousands, was nevertheless quite an event in our community. The alarm was given at a few minutes past 3 p. m. by a printer employed in this office, named Thos. Spencer, who was passing up Fort street and detected the smell of fire from the wooden premises on the corner of Fort and Hotel streets, occupied in the upper story by Mr. H. L. Chase as photographic gallery, and below by Messrs. Grunwald & Schutte, dry good lealers. The Fire Department was promptly on hand, and worked with such skill and energy that, in spite of the combustible nature of the building and its contents, in half an hour the fire was out, The upper story only was consumed, showing that the fire must have originated there,-but in what manner is yet unexplained. Mr Chase's loss is stated at $2000, and that of Grunwald & Schutte at $1000, the damage of the latter being mainly sustained by water and in removing, as none of them goods were destroyed. In fact, owing to the promptness and energy of the firemen nearly the whole lower part of the building was left standing, and adjoining wooden houses were only severely scotched. While congratulating the city on the efficiency of our volunteer Fire Department-which was so apparent to all on Sanday last-we may be thankful that the fire occurred in the day time, for had it been in the night the progress of the devouring element would probably have not been so soon
